

OJW Brand Voice

(same deliverables, better strategic coherence and impact)

Our social media -

1. Gen Z vibe
2. speaking to change makers (activists, ngos, college clubs)
3. Serious and strategic to institutions (donors, corporates, college admins)
4. Showcasing both deconstruction campaigns periodically (audience appropriate - occasional hard truths), and reconstruction is our main identity.
5. Key question to ask on content
 - i. what does a change maker engaging with us (exposure to old activist) with us want to know?
 - ii. If we wanted user stories for putting our content out, what would they say?

On the ground

1. quarterly disruptive media campaigns (but with systems frames)
2. soft light touch actions without coordination (but starting within 1 month of disruptive media)
3. meal plan changes - >in clusters, temporally aligned

Digital Identity

Templates family (make core for now, we will build others as we come to them)

social media

website

ppt

visiting card

letterhead

document

Content Buckets and Formats

Bucket 1: Changemaker Stories

Peer credibility + distributed leadership

30-sec Reel

"Why I joined this campaign"

5-slide Case Study

175 changemakers in 2 weeks (how + impact)

Quote Card

Young activist reflection

"How We Did It"

Capacity gaps we filled

Bucket 2: Proof of Impact

Legitimacy + scale

(always share what worked, why it worked, what changed because of it)

This Week in Numbers

Media coverage collage (73 mentions example)

Before/After institutional action

Reach & engagement snapshot

Bucket 3: Knowledge Tools (content bank)

Equip changemakers

FAQ carousel

(Calcium? Farmer livelihoods?
Nutrition?)

Research highlight screenshot

"Use this stat in your campus meeting"

Economic case

for plant-based procurement

Themes to rotate: Dairy 4Ns reframed, Government data, Institutional procurement logic, Youth wellness trends

Bucket 4: Culture and aspiration

(Normalize plant-based future)

- Influencer reflection (aligned to core themes)
- Food joy reel (Indian plant-based dish)
- "Gen Z leaders choose compassion"
- Street-level positive imagery (cafés, campuses)

Make veganism: Modern Indian, Emotionally resonant, Joyful

Bucket 5: Institutional Shift

(Norm goal — plant-based as default)

Cafeteria shifts/food change update

College Club update

Young employee advocating internally

"How to approach your HR"

Frame it as: Economically smart, Youth-driven, Future-facing leadership

Bucket 6: Seasonal myth busting

Tone & Visual Checklist

Tone

- Is this positive Gen Z energy?
- Is compassion clearly embedded?
- Is justice framing visible?
- Is it Indian in context?
- Does it avoid shaming?
- Does it connect harms intersectionally?

Voice

Clear, not academic

Confident, not defensive

Impact-oriented, not emotional overload

Visual

Human faces > graphics

Warm earthy palette

Indian cues (texture, typography, cultural cues)

Clean layout

Avoid clutter

Frames (for every content piece, check if any of these frames can be linked)

These are cross-cutting lenses. Every post must link to at least one:

Wellness

Sustainability

(NOT climate heavy, but lifestyle sustainability)

Economically Smart

Compassion

(constitutional + cultural)

Youth Leadership

Future-Focused India

If none apply → rethink the post.

CTA

We need to discuss and finalise the CTA.

Soft CTA

on most posts:

- "Share this with your local group."
- "Save this for your next meeting."
- "Tag someone who should see this."

CTA doesn't need to be on every post.

Hard CTA

(1x per week max – Sunday):

- Sign up
- Join network
- Attend action
- Download toolkit

Institutional CTA

(2x per month):

- "If you work in HR/campus admin, DM us."
- "We can support your transition."

Physical Assets

Physical assets will need a visual theme - standee for meal plan changes, campaign stuff for art group activations, merchandise requests

